Index Comparison

Wal-Mart Supplier Index (WMX) vs S&P 500 and Wal-Mart Stores Inc. (WMT) (3 Year %)

ISE Index Description

The ISE-REVERE Wal-Mart® Supplier Index (WMX) is a "float-adjusted" capitalization index that tracks the performance of companies that derive a substantial portion of revenue from Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. WMX is designed to exploit a unique situation where the world's largest retailer has spawned a sub-industry of dependent companies, including many that are common household names. The goal of WMX is to be the benchmark of that sub-industry. The Index was created on July 1, 2002.

WMX vs S&P 500 and WMT (%)

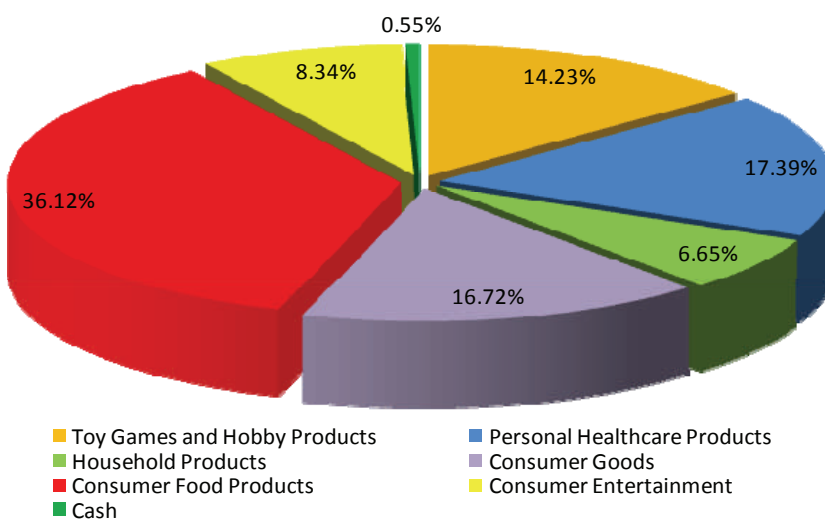

Index/Stock	One Month	YTD	1 year	3 Years (Annualized)
WMX	2.55	- 3.47	- 1.37	2.87

An investment in the Fund is subject to investment risk, including the possible loss of principal amount invested. The Fund's returns may not match the return of the Index, known as non-correlation risk, due to operating expenses incurred by the Fund. The Fund may invest in small or medium sized companies which involves greater risk than is customarily associated with investing in larger, more established companies. The Fund is non-diversified and as a result may be more volatile than a diversified fund because it may invest its assets in a smaller number of issuers or may invest larger proportions in a single company within the industries that comprise the Fund. The Fund's performance figures include the reinvestment of dividends and capital gains.

The companies whose stocks are held by the FocusShares ISE-Revere Wal-Mart Supplier Index Fund may be significantly affected by the performance of the overall economy, interest rates, competition, consumer confidence and the underlying performance of Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. The profitability of these companies may depend heavily upon disposable household income and consumer spending. Changes in demographics and consumer tastes may also affect the demand for, and success of, consumer discretionary products. The Fund is newly organized, has no trading history, and there can be no assurance that active trading markets for the Fund will develop or be maintained.

The S&P 500 Index is a broad-based, unmanaged measurement of changes in stock market conditions based on the average of 500 widely held common stocks. One cannot invest directly in an index.

Before investing you should carefully consider the Fund's investment objectives, risks, charges and expenses. This and other information is in the prospectus, a copy of which may be obtained by visiting the Fund's website at www.FocusShares.com. Please read the prospectus carefully before you invest.
